

Module 99.5: Health and Spirituality

- Less than one in six respondents reported regularly practicing their faith; women were more likely to report so (75%) than men (41%).
- The practice of their faith is highest among the 55-64 year old group (63%) and lowest among the 65-74 year old group (53%).
- Those with some college education were more likely to report regularly practicing their faith (65%) than those with a college degree (42%) or with less education than themselves (58%).
- Those in the higher income brackets of $20,000 or more were more likely to report regularly practicing their faith than those with lesser incomes.